1. They connect in the way that many things need to meet a parameter, and it simply needs to know if the parameter is met or not. Equating equations to true or false makes the process of knowing if the parameters are met easier.

2. Needing to know if you have enough food AND water to go on a camping trip.